Media Advisory

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission has launched a nationwide search for its highest staff position: Director of Administration.

Appointed by the commissioners, the Director of Administration serves as the executive director, appointing authority, and chief of staff for the Commission. This position provides administrative direction and management of the agency, which has a $50 million annual budget, approximately 460 full-time employees within its nine divisions, and has oversight responsibility for programs involving more than $400 million annually.

Currently, the Commission regulates a wide range of activities in four core program areas: 1) oil and gas drilling and production; 2) public utilities; 3) motor carrier, rail and pipeline transportation; and 4) petroleum storage tanks.
